

About the Presenter

Alicia has been a writer, researcher, and public speaker on the issue of origins for more than 20 years (creation, evolution, radioisotope dating, the Flood of Noah, constraints of the Biblical text). Her particular area of interest and expertise is the age of the earth (thousands or billions?), and the science and theology that surround that issue. She taught the subject at San Diego Christian College (formerly Christian Heritage College).

Alicia loves holding and working with premature babies, and had the awesome privilege of volunteering in a Level III NICU for 7 years. Pro-life ministry holds a special place in her heart. She is a published author of both fiction and non-fiction works. Her pro-life novel, The Executioners, was written to help publicize an important area of true, scientific research that is important to both women and babies.
